

North Twenty-third Street, was well known to a large circle of acquaintances through his position as guard in the grounds around the State Capitol, a position which he has held for several years. Mr. Knott was thirty-six years old, unmarried, and the people at his boarding-house were not informed as to his immediate relatives. He was alone in his room at the time of the shooting and no reason has been advanced for his act. The bullet went in just below the right ear, and lodged near the base of the brain. The ambulance was called and the doctors of the neighborhood worked over the wounded man for nearly two hours in a vain attempt to save his life. He died about 1 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Knott had been on duty for some time on account of sickness. He was appointed to his position from Newport News, and it is said that his parents are living in that city.

TWO KILLED BY INTENSE HEAT

Intense heat, with the thermometer climbing very near the century mark, was responsible for two deaths in Richmond yesterday, two negroes being stricken in the streets and dying almost at once.

Sarah Jackson, a colored woman, living near the corner of Third and Clay Streets, dropped dead suddenly near her house. Dr. E. E. Jones, the colored physician, who was summoned, had evidently died immediately. The case was reported to the coroner, who decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The woman had been sick for some time, and her death, though due to heat, was accelerated by other complications.

Dropped in Street.

Robert Brown, a strapping-looking negro man, in the employ of the Jefferson Hotel Company, had an out and out stroke yesterday shortly after 1 o'clock, while pushing his "sample" cart up Main Street hill. He had just passed Eighth Street when he was seen to fall suddenly to the pavement. Bystanders lifted the man into the shade of a building, but he died before the ambulance arrived. Dr. H. S. McLean, who was passing, rendered what aid he could, putting ice to the man's head and using all available remedies. The city ambulance in charge of Dr. Strickland, however, and just after the unfortunate man was lifted into the wagon he died.

Brown was a great joker among the negroes, who a long time ago dubbed him the colored "Mark Twain." He was the only negro who succeeded in extracting a hearty laugh from President Roosevelt on his trip here. This he did by his ready wit.

Very Hot in City.

During the day Richmond experienced the heat of the weather, which has been able to do in the way of warmth. It had any further heat bolts up his sleeve he had reserved them until the summer is nearly half-over.

The big thermometer in the Weather Bureau up on the north floor of the Mutual Building, where the breezes come in all day and with fans playing in its neighborhood, managed to climb up to ninety-five at 3 P. M. and hang on there for an hour or more. What the thermometer would have registered down on the pavement, with the reflection of the street beating on it, no one has been able to guess.

The only good news of the day was the statement that the grand jury was sitting on the "ice trust." At any rate the members of the jury were cool, whether the witnesses were or not. The spell of the past week has depicted the funds of the city as being low, and much need for relief among the poor and sick of the lower part of the town. Though comparatively few heat prostrations were reported, the ambulances, in charge of Dr. Stole, was kept busy.

The soda water fountains and the street cars did a rushing business, people by the thousands flocking out of town after duck, seeking some cool spot, unheated by the city paving and the rows of brick walls. "Perhaps the largest number found their way to Idlewood and were attracted to the great Midsummer Music Festival, and to the various cool spots about the Reservoir.

CLOTHING STORES MAY CLOSE EARLY

Broad Street Merchants Favor Suspending Business Earlier on Saturday.

The Broad Street clothing stores are falling into the Saturday early closing movement, and it will not be long, perhaps, when would-be buyers of clothing will have to call early in order to be waited on.

Messrs. Wright & Woodall, of No. 7 East Broad, are heartily in favor of an early closing hour for Saturday night, and Mr. Julian W. Tyler has addressed the following note to The Times-Dispatch:

"I notice in your issues of the past few days items, concerning the early closing of retail clothing and furnishing stores of Richmond on Saturday nights. I wish to state that I for one am heartily in favor of the movement and stand ready at any time to join in with the reputable clothing and furnishing stores of this city to close their doors at a reasonable hour on Saturday nights. By publishing this item in your valued columns you will oblige. (Signed) JULIAN W. TYLER."

RAGTIME MUSIC AT THE POLICE PICNIC

Caps Want No Sonatas at Fair Grounds Celebration To-Day.

"Fun, fast and furious, with feasting, racing, music and all kinds of horse play, is the promise held out for the annual picnic of the Police Benevolent Association to-day. The place selected for the police gathering this year is more accessible than has been the case before, the State Fair Grounds having been put at the disposal of the committee, and the Passenger and Power Company in the force will for short time at least, make an effort to go out to the Fair Grounds, men arranging to swap off for a few hours during the afternoon. The picnic will be held at the grounds, with Mr. L. Z. Morris, president of the Police Benevolent Association, and there will be an abundant enjoyment."

Barbecue the Feature.

The chief attraction of the day is the great barbecue, in which a kind of meats and vegetables known to the Richmond markets will be made into a grand stew in sufficiently ample portions for every one to have his fill. Captain Barfoot, of the First Police Station, has been selected to preside over the barbecue, and his skill in seasoning assures the success of the mixture. There will also be roast meats, chicken and sandwiches by the carload.

MEN BURIED ALIVE; ONE DEAD, ONE HURT

Vivian Saunders Killed and Frank Tyler Had Narrow Escape Yesterday.

TRENCH CAVED IN

Caught beneath a ton or more of earth in a sewer trench opposite Lee Monument yesterday morning, Vivian Saunders, a young white man, employed by the city, was killed, and Frank Tyler, also working in the ditch, was comparatively slight injuries.

Saunders was literally suffocated, death resulting in a very few minutes. It took several hours of strenuous work to excavate the body. The cave-in occurred just after 10 o'clock, and the body was not removed from the trench until nearly noon. Tyler was dug out after an hour of hard work and was found to have escaped with a dislocated shoulder.

Account of Accident.

The trench, which is about two and a half feet wide and nearly a hundred feet in length, is being dug along Allen Avenue, just north of the Lee Monument, curving at the north end to meet the sewer connection in the city. The trench was being dug by the city, just opposite the Shenandoah Plaza.

Charles Tate, one of the workmen in the trench, gave a graphic account of the accident yesterday evening.

"It was about 10 o'clock or a little later," he said, "I was maybe eight feet down, shoveling dirt up to a landing stage just above my head, when Charlie Gay was throwing it on out. I was a little way round the curve from Saunders, and Tyler was just on beyond me, both out of my sight. Foreman Atkinson called out that the earth beside the trench was cracking, and I came out of that trench like a shot out of a gun. The other two were caught, and we all went to work at once to get them out."

Rescue Work.

All possible efforts were made to rescue the imprisoned men, even to the extent of the city and many citizens assisting in the work. The top of Saunders' head was visible from the first, but before he could be relieved life was extinct. Tyler was buried up to his neck, and remained imprisoned for nearly an hour before he could be removed.

Hurry calls were at once sent out in all directions for assistance. Mr. J. M. Allen, of Church Hill, who happened to be passing, was most vigorous in his efforts to get assistance. He was Mr. W. J. Gilman, a member of the Board of Aldermen, and other neighbors. Captain Shrewsbury, with the men from Fire Engine Company No. 10, were promptly on the ground, as were the workmen of T. A. Berry & Co., who were engaged on a paving contract nearby. The patrol wagon loaded with police were shortly on the ground from both stations. The big automobile from the First Station, with a record run with ten men on board, arrived in a few minutes, reaching the scene of the accident before the city ambulance could arrive from its remote station on Second Street, although the panting sweat-soaked horse of the ambulance showed the speed with which that wagon was driven.

All hands took hold with a will, and with reckless disregard of the danger of additional slides, toiled away in the hot sun to liberate the men. Chief of Police Turner was promptly on the ground, and shortly after came Mayor McCarthy and Assistant City Engineer Beck.

Hudgens Overcome.

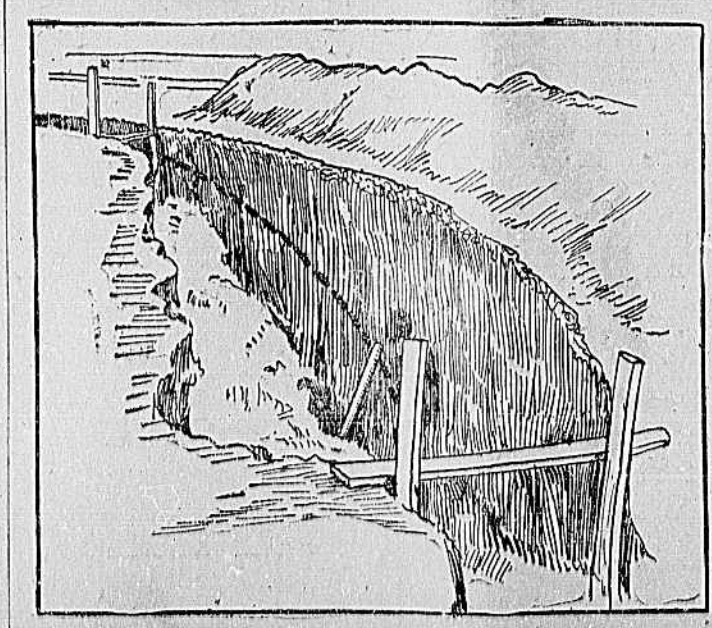

Employees of the Engineer's Department from other jobs were also hurried up, until more men were on the scene than could possibly be used in the limited space. E. C. Hudgens, one of the employees at work on the ditch, labored so hard in trying to save his comrades that he was himself overcome, and had to be lifted from the trench. The ambulance surgeon treated him, and he was able to remain until the work was completed.

Tyler remained conscious throughout the time of his imprisonment. He thinks a slight projection on the side of the trench took the force of the fall, and saved him from being crushed.

So unnerved by his fearful experience that he was unable to give the number of his house, and the ambulance surgeon advised that he be taken to the City Hospital for a more complete examination. His home is at No. 1020 West Cary Street. After reacting from the shock he was found to be in pretty bad condition, and the doctors have fears of internal injuries. He was made comfortable at the City Hospital last night.

Saunders' man killed was unmarried and boarded at No. 1800 Ashland Street. He is from Louisa county, where his mother, Mrs. Alice Saunders, and several brothers and sisters are living. Foreman Atkinson notified his mother yesterday evening, and the body was turned over to Undertaker A. W. Bennett. It will be shipped to Malden, Va., over the river division.

The gang working at the trench at the time of the accident were Foreman Atkinson, Charles Tate, Tyler and Saunders. All were white men, and all employed by the City Engineer's Department.

Man Was Suffocated.

Foreman Atkinson said yesterday afternoon that he could not account for the cave-in of the earth. The trench was not a very deep one—that is, as compared with many sewer connections, some of which go as far below ground as thirty feet, in making proper grades for the water fall.

Coroner Taylor looked over the ground yesterday and viewed the remains of Saunders, and concluded that an inquest was unnecessary.

"I think," said the coroner, "that Saunders was undoubtedly suffocated, and in a very short time after the cave-in. No bones were broken, nor did there seem to be any other serious injury."

It was reported that the earth where the accident occurred was made ground, having been sloped up to the Lee Monument; but this does not appear to have been the case. Coroner Taylor declares that the sides of the ditch appeared to be in regular strata formation of clay, gravel and fuller.

He thought this was the first time the ground had been disturbed. The first crack appeared a foot or more from the edge of the trench, a section of the roadway breaking off and falling into the ditch.

Members of the crowd that no timber supports or other buttresses were used in the trench, and Foreman Atkinson explained that this is not customary at this time of the year, when the soil appeared to be reasonably dry.

Mayor Much Annoyed.

Mr. J. M. Allen and later Mayor McCarthy were much annoyed at the delays occasioned by the telephone operator. The phone in the drug store at the Shenandoah Plaza is one of the "nickel" in the slot variety, and nickels appeared to be hard to find in the haste of the occasion. When the Mayor arrived, and was using the phone repeatedly in summoning assistance, he was quite positive in his expressions of disapproval at the delays imposed by the telephone company when every moment counted in the work of rescue.

Later in the afternoon, after repeated complaints from the Mayor, the phone was thrown open to general use by the officials.

So much unnerved by the accident were the men engaged on the job, and so much overcome by the strenuous work in getting the victims out, that no attempt was made to continue the work yesterday afternoon. Foreman Atkinson had the men put in some wooden braces to prevent further sliding, and the ditch was fenced off. The men lay about under the trees and discussed the accident, and the story of the ones who were caught under the earth.

Much Excitement.

Considerable excitement was occasioned downtown yesterday, when the report spread over town that the walls of the Shenandoah Plaza had cracked and fallen in. As a matter of fact, the trench is nearly a block from the Plaza, being nearer the Lee Monument than any other building, though not near enough for the weight of the monument to have any influence on the cave-in.

AGAINST PAWNSHOPS.

Police Object to Granting of More Licenses Here.

The Police Department has filed a protest with Judge Witt against the granting of additional licenses for conducting pawnshops in Richmond. It is reported that there are already more pawnshops in Richmond than there are in Washington or Baltimore, and the chief is in favor of reducing the number here rather than increasing it.

Howitzers Drill.

The Howitzers held their last drill for the summer last night, the battalion being then dismissed until further orders. A large part of the time yesterday evening was put in cleaning and packing away the guns used on the famous practice march. All the other camp equipment had already been packed. Last night the guns were gone over with care and found to be in excellent condition, notwithstanding their rough usage. They were thoroughly oiled and cleaned and packed away until some future occasion calls the battery into service.

Attempted Suicide.

Harriet Brown, colored, No. 1810 Tunnel Street, made another attempt to kill herself last night, drinking about two ounces of laudanum with the intention of committing suicide. This is the seventh time on record that Harriet has started out to make way with herself and every time an ambulance surgeon has interfered. Dr. W. A. Strole came with the wagon last night, and after considerable work succeeded in removing her from the street. After being brought around, she was turned over to the police, and locked up at the First Station to think the matter over for a while. Harriet says she will settle the matter next time without calling for assistance.

COUNCIL TO MEET TWICE EVERY MONTH

Committee So Recommends, But Fights Shy of Afternoon Session.

HAVE NO HOLIDAY

The off-hand manner in which the business of the city is run, and through the Council was severely condemned at a meeting of the Committee on Ordinances, Charter and Reform last night. That the Council is in need of improvement, and that the conduct heretofore was not calculated to bring about the best results, was the opinion of the members, who discussed the matter in connection with Councilman Umlauf's ordinance for bi-monthly meetings of both branches.

Violent objection developed to that action, providing for meetings at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and it was decided that it would seriously interfere with the appetites of the City Fathers, who would much prefer to meet when hunger struck them, without returning an hour later to complete the business.

Much Opposition.

The most pronounced opposition, however, followed the suggestion of Mr. Umlauf that the meetings adjourn at 11 P. M. When this feeling was expressed, the section as to adjournment was brought to a standstill, and the resolution, as recommended by the committee, calls for bi-monthly meetings of the Council on the first and third Mondays in the evening, the Council adjourn at 11 P. M. if the ordinance is adopted, will meet on the first and third Mondays of each month, and the Board of Aldermen on the second and fourth Tuesdays.

Umlauf criticized the custom of members in leaving the Council chamber before the work of the meeting is concluded, saying that some who were really compelled to go had to remain to maintain the quorum. Men, he said, who opposed certain measures frequent left the hall, and thereby defeated the Council. He believed that the business should have more careful attention, and that the Council should be in session when the dock of a ship is not crowded into one regular night.

Charges for Water.

Just before adjournment Mr. Davis, asking for information, wanted to know why it was that a person's water rent in his home was 67 cents, it should be increased to double that amount when the family is occupying it rented half the apartment to a hardship on the poor, and after more than a half hour's discussion, the committee, consisting of Messrs. Davis, Dabney and Ferguson, was appointed to confer with the water people and draft an ordinance for a more equitable adjustment of charges in such cases.

Salary Question Postponed.

The committee put its veto on the plan of the Board of Health to require a person requesting the recovery of his death or burial certificate to pay fifty cents for the document.

More than a score of city employees were mentioned, with their salaries, but it was not considered good policy to approve or reject them without some information from the heads of the departments. The question of salary was postponed, therefore, until next Tuesday night.

Whiskey Ordinances.

At the meeting of the Committee on Ordinances, Charter and Reform to be held Tuesday night, the committee, considering the ordinance to further regulate the sale of liquor will be submitted, and a subsequent meeting of the committee, the members favoring more stringent laws affecting the business will have an opportunity to express opinions.

Telephones in City Hall.

The Council Committee on Electricity last night appointed a subcommittee, consisting of Messrs. E. D. Richardson, Dabney and Dabney, to look into the matter of installing a private telephone exchange in the City Hall, with stations in every office.

AMBULANCE WAS KEPT ON MOVE

The city ambulance, in charge of Dr. W. A. Strole, had one of the busiest days of the summer yesterday. Though only two cases of heat prostration were reported, there were a large number of accidents, and the ambulance was kept on the move. Dr. Strole reported that the wagon had made the long journey from the head of Second Street to some point in the city twenty-one times. Several horses were wounded during the day, and the run continued until well on after midnight.

During the morning yesterday the physicians at the City Hospital operated on John Smith, colored, who was brought to the Home on Monday, after a shooting scrape. The bullet, which lodged in the negro's abdomen, and was removed by Dr. Trautman, assisted by Drs. Strole and Hinckman. Though he is seriously ill, it is now thought that Smith will recover.

Attempted Suicide.

Harriet Brown, colored, No. 1810 Tunnel Street, made another attempt to kill herself last night, drinking about two ounces of laudanum with the intention of committing suicide. This is the seventh time on record that Harriet has started out to make way with herself and every time an ambulance surgeon has interfered. Dr. W. A. After being brought around, she was turned over to the police, and locked up at the First Station to think the matter over for a while. Harriet says she will settle the matter next time without calling for assistance.

MACANDA WILL SING TO-NIGHT

Famous Artist to Appear in Music Festival at Horse Show Building.

FINE WORK BEING DONE

Afternoon Concert.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the second of a series of popular afternoon concerts will be given in the Horse Show Building. The program will be given in the Horse Show Building. The program will be given in the Horse Show Building. The program will be given in the Horse Show Building.

Afternoon and evening concerts were given at the Horse Show Building yesterday, and from an artistic point of view the program which marked the second night of the midsummer music festival, surpassed that of Monday's. It was a valuable performance, and in the attendance was due to the threatening weather, for in no other way can it be explained after the success of the first night. Certainly the program of last night was very attractive, for there were two soloists instead of the one of Monday's. The soloists were Miss Macanda, a soprano, and Miss Adah Campbell Hussey, contralto, and Mr. Frank Ormsby, tenor. Savoy soloists, which the committee constituted their part of the program. Miss Hussey is an artist of most pleasing personality, and she is a most cordial reception by the audience. Mr. Ormsby shared the honors with Miss Macanda, and he was regarded by the audience as the accompaniment of the piano, there being no repetition of the experience of the first night, when Mrs. Crapner, pianist of her name, was the accompaniment of the piano.

Among the composers from whose work selections were rendered last night were Suppe, Buxi, Verdi, Leon, Brahms, Franz, Rossini, Tosti, Strauss, and others. The program for to-day.

Madam Charlotte Macanda is the soloist for to-night, and it is expected that the appearance of her name will mark the culmination of enthusiasm for the festival. Her program for to-day.

SURVIVORS TELL NARROWING TALE

everything made it terrible. We did not know if the San Pedro would hold together, although the officers and crew did their best to cheer us up. The day broke. The fog still hung low and the lights only appeared gradually, but then we could see who was saved and who was not. That night I can't tell you about it. Everything about it was so desolate and dismal. And then the Elder came up. They got us aboard, cared for us, and at Eureka I secured the only remaining berth on the Pomona to come back home. A shot. Chief Engineer J. Y. Jackson gave the following account of the wreck of the steamer Columbia in an interview to the Evening Post:

the steamer Columbia in an interview to the Evening Post:

"I was in my stateroom when the crash occurred, and I scrambled into some clothes and came upon deck. All was confusion and turmoil. The roar of the water as it poured into the hole of the Columbia's side was deafening. Then, desperately swimming away, I caught a rope thrown from the deck of the San Pedro. From there I looked back at the Columbia just in time to see her plunge beneath the waves. As she sank I could distinctly see many men dash across the deck toward the San Pedro. The next moment the fog had hidden the dreadful scene."

"I am sure that many steerage passengers did not leave their staterooms, as the interval was so short between the time she was struck and the time that she sank, that the men had not time to get to the deck, and those that did jumped overboard and were sucked down by the vortex created by the sinking vessel."

"When I rushed across the deck it seemed to be deserted, but I knew that many were about me, for the screams and cries were awful. I thank God that I am safe, but would willingly have given my life as Captain Doran did to save those that perished."

"I did not realize that the only one to come as soon as it did, and I believe Captain Doran was of the same opinion."

Over a Hundred Saved.

Purser Brown, of the Pomona, furnished a list of the members of the Columbia's crew brought to this city by his vessel. He showed a list of the surviving passengers taken to Eureka, exclusive of those who reached there an hour before the sailing of the Pomona, which had been personally secured and certified by Purser Byrnes.

It comprised 107 names, and tallied with the list reported in these dispatches last night. Mr. Brown said he was authoritatively told in Eureka that the fifteen members of the steamer's department, ten members of the engineer's department, and twelve of the deck crew, a total of thirty-seven, were saved, as were all of
